

The Pipe of the Century.

THE merits of Peterson's Patent Pipes are now so thoroughly recognised that it is almost unnecessary to dwell on their many advantages over ordinary Pipes.

However, for those who have not gone deeply into the matter, we append a few explanations.

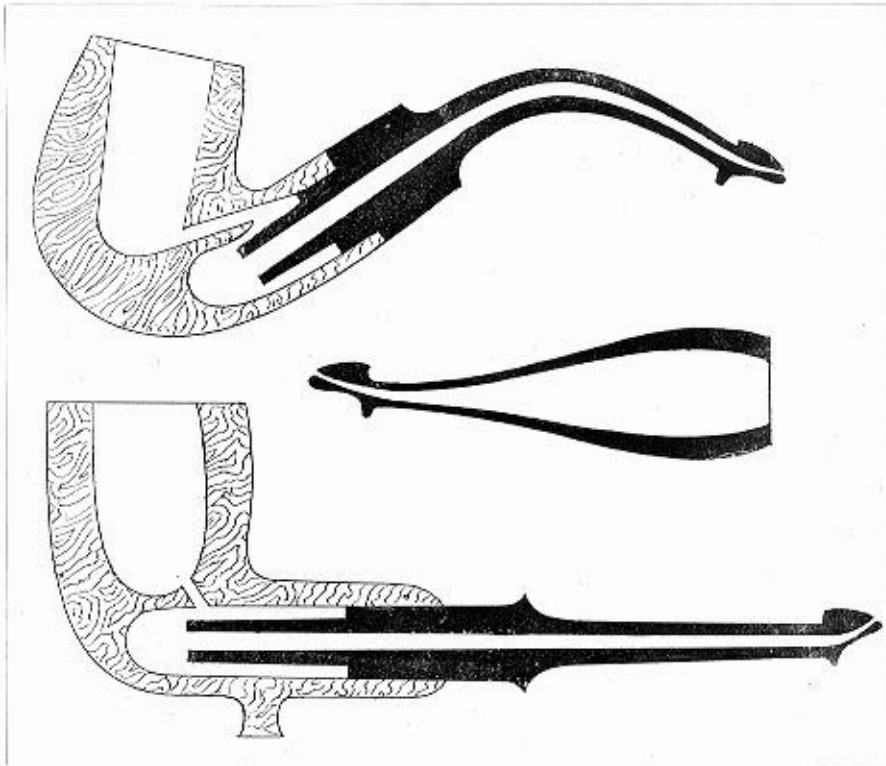

BEST FINISHED PIPE

BEST PATENT PIPE.

Smokers as well as Pipe manufacturers, have hitherto misunderstood saliva for nicotine. There is no nicotine in a pipeful of tobacco, or rather it is so small that it would be impossible to extract it. The brown liquid commonly called nicotine is only saliva and condensed moisture, mixed with a residue of essential oil of tobacco which is deposited by the smoke.
